Draft for website publication - replace bracketed placeholders before use
Last Updated: [Insert Date]

Important: This Privacy Policy is a business draft for CastSlate. It should be reviewed by a licensed attorney before publication, especially because privacy law changes and because a privacy policy cannot make a company impossible to sue. It can, however, make the company's practices clearer, reduce ambiguity, and strengthen risk controls. Humanity persists despite paperwork.

1. Introduction and Scope

CastSlate, together with its owners, operators, affiliates, contractors, service providers, representatives, successors and assigns (collectively, "CastSlate," "we," "us," or "our"), respects privacy and is committed to explaining how we collect, use, disclose, store and protect personal information. This Privacy Policy applies to personal information collected through the CastSlate website, web applications, mobile-accessible services, casting tools, user accounts, talent profiles, casting director tools, administrative dashboards, messaging tools, payment pages, email communications, customer support, marketing activities, and any related online or offline services that link to this Privacy Policy (collectively, the "Services").

This Privacy Policy is intended to apply to CastSlate's own business operations and to information processed on behalf of users who post casting notices, projects, roles, classes, notices, announcements or other opportunities through the Services. Where CastSlate acts as a service provider, processor or contractor for another business, that business may have separate privacy obligations to you. In that situation, CastSlate processes information as directed by that business and applicable law.

By using the Services, creating an account, posting or applying to a casting notice, uploading a profile, subscribing, sending a message, contacting us, or otherwise providing personal information to CastSlate, you acknowledge that you have read this Privacy Policy. If you do not agree with this Privacy Policy, do not use the Services. This is not dramatic; it is just how consent screens work now.

This Privacy Policy should be read together with CastSlate's Terms of Service and any additional terms applicable to particular features. If this Privacy Policy conflicts with a written agreement signed by an authorized representative of CastSlate, the signed agreement controls only to the extent of that conflict.

2. Notice at Collection and Summary of Personal Information Collected

Depending on how you interact with CastSlate, we may collect the categories of personal information listed below. We may collect these categories directly from you, automatically from your device or browser, from other users, from payment processors, from service providers, from public sources, from business partners, from casting or production entities, from fraud prevention tools, or from other lawful sources.

Categories may include: identifiers; account credentials; contact information; profile information; casting-related information; professional and employment-related information; union status where supplied by the user; photographs, images, demo reels, video, audio, resumes, work samples and other media; physical characteristics voluntarily provided for casting purposes; commercial and transaction information; payment and billing information processed by payment vendors; internet or device activity; general geolocation derived from IP address; precise location only if enabled or deliberately provided; communications and messages; user-generated content; support requests; preference information; security logs; and inferences derived from your activity on the Services.

Some casting-related information may be considered sensitive personal information under certain laws, including age, gender, ethnicity, race, union status, physical description, photographs, video, voice recordings, disability-related casting preferences, or other demographic or identity-related information voluntarily included in a talent profile, casting submission, message, or posted notice. CastSlate does not require users to provide sensitive information unless it is necessary for a specific feature, transaction, compliance purpose, safety purpose, or casting-related function, and users should not provide sensitive information unless they choose to do so and have the legal right to provide it.

We collect personal information for business and commercial purposes including account creation, authentication, service delivery, casting profile functionality, casting notice posting, applications/submissions, messaging, subscriptions, billing, moderation, fraud prevention, safety, legal compliance, customer support, analytics, product improvement, advertising, marketing, enforcing our Terms, protecting users and CastSlate, and maintaining the integrity of the platform.

3. Information We Collect

Account and registration information. We may collect your name, stage name, business name, email address, phone number, username, password or authentication token, account type, role, subscription status, billing identifiers, profile settings and other details needed to create and maintain an account.

Talent, performer and profile information. If you create a profile, submit to a casting, or use talent-related tools, we may collect headshots, photographs, videos, reels, resumes, work history, training, skills, languages, accents, availability, location preferences, union status, agency or manager information, height, weight, clothing sizes, age range, appearance descriptors and other information you choose to provide for casting or professional presentation purposes.

Casting director, employer, producer and project information. If you post or manage opportunities, we may collect company name, project title, project description, role details, compensation details, filming or audition location, production dates, union or non-union status, contact details, verification materials, payment details, tax or business records where legally required, communication preferences and other information needed to publish or manage listings.

Submissions and communications. We may collect application materials, messages, audition invitations, notes, attachments, responses, scheduling information, profile views, saves, shortlists, replies, ratings, flags, reports, support messages and related metadata. Messages may be processed, stored, reviewed or disclosed as described in this Privacy Policy and the Terms of Service.

Payment and subscription information. We may collect transaction history, subscription plan, renewal status, cancellation date, invoices, receipts, refund requests, tax information, chargeback information and billing contact details. Full payment card numbers are typically processed by third-party payment processors, and CastSlate may receive limited payment tokens, last four digits, card brand, expiration details or payment status information as permitted by the payment processor.

Device, usage and technical information. We may collect IP address, browser type, device identifiers, operating system, referral URLs, pages viewed, links clicked, session duration, search terms, login activity, approximate location, crash logs, diagnostics, cookie identifiers, advertising identifiers and interaction data.

Support, surveys and communications. We may collect information you provide when you contact support, complete forms, respond to surveys, report abuse, request deletion, opt out of marketing, submit feedback or communicate with CastSlate by email, phone, mail, website form or social media.

Information from third parties. We may receive information from payment processors, analytics vendors, identity verification vendors, hosting providers, security services, email providers, advertising platforms, public websites, social media platforms, users who invite or refer you, and other lawful sources.

4. Sources of Personal Information

We collect personal information from you when you submit it; from your browser, device and activity when you use the Services; from other users when they submit, tag, message, invite, review, report or interact with you; from service providers and vendors that support our operations; from payment processors; from analytics and advertising partners; from fraud prevention and security tools; from publicly available sources; from business partners and affiliates; and from legal, government or regulatory sources where applicable.

CastSlate does not control what personal information other users choose to submit about themselves or others. If you upload, post, submit or transmit personal information about another person, you represent that you have the right and authority to do so and that your submission complies with all applicable laws and contracts.

5. How We Use Personal Information

We may use personal information to operate, provide, maintain, improve, personalize, secure and promote the Services; create and manage accounts; verify account activity; display talent profiles and casting opportunities; enable submissions, shortlists, messaging and communication; process subscriptions and payments; deliver customer support; send administrative notices; enforce policies; prevent fraud and abuse; moderate content; investigate complaints; protect rights, safety and property; comply with legal obligations; maintain business records; analyze platform usage; test and develop features; train, evaluate or improve internal tools where permitted; send marketing and promotional communications; and carry out any other purpose disclosed at the time of collection or permitted by law.

We may also use information to detect false accounts, duplicate accounts, suspicious activity, abusive messaging, fake casting opportunities, misleading profiles, scams, spam, unauthorized scraping, payment fraud, content violations, intellectual property violations and other behavior that may harm users, CastSlate or the integrity of the Services.

CastSlate may use personal information to make platform features more useful, including showing relevant casting opportunities, improving search and filtering, suggesting account setup steps, identifying incomplete profiles, personalizing content, measuring advertisement performance and improving user experience. CastSlate does not guarantee that any recommendation, search result, ranking, casting match, profile view, message or submission will produce employment, compensation, auditions, bookings, representation, publicity, reputation, professional success or any other outcome.

6. User Profiles, Casting Listings, Submissions, Messaging and Public/Shared Content

Certain areas of the Services are designed for sharing information with other users. Talent profiles, casting notices, project pages, role descriptions, class listings, production notices, profile images, reels, resumes, submitted materials, saved lists, messages and other content may be visible to other users depending on your settings, account type, actions and feature design.

You should assume that information you make public, post to a casting notice, submit to another user, include in a profile, send through messaging, or otherwise share through the Services may be viewed, copied, stored, downloaded, screenshotted, forwarded, indexed, discussed or used by others outside CastSlate's control. CastSlate is not responsible for another user's use, misuse, disclosure, copying or retention of information you choose to share, except where required by applicable law.

Casting listings and profile materials may include statements, role descriptions, project summaries, creative descriptions, artistic references, simulated projects, fictional projects, entertainment concepts, placeholder text, testing content or user-generated materials that are not independently verified by CastSlate. Users are solely responsible for determining whether information shared through the Services is accurate, lawful, safe, appropriate and suitable for their own use.

7. Sensitive Personal Information and Entertainment/Casting Data

Casting services often involve information that may be sensitive, contextual or subjective. Users may voluntarily provide demographic, identity, physical, professional, creative, union, location, voice, image, video, age range, costume size, skill, disability-related, language, accent, availability or experience information for casting-related purposes. CastSlate collects and processes this information only as reasonably necessary to provide the Services, fulfill user requests, operate casting functionality, comply with law, protect safety, prevent fraud, or as otherwise disclosed.

Users must not request, require, post or misuse sensitive personal information in a discriminatory, unlawful, exploitative, harassing, deceptive or unsafe manner. CastSlate may remove or restrict content or accounts that request or use sensitive information improperly. CastSlate does not guarantee that user-submitted casting criteria comply with all employment, labor, anti-discrimination, union, privacy or production laws. Users posting opportunities are responsible for their own legal compliance.

Where laws grant a right to limit the use or disclosure of sensitive personal information, CastSlate will honor valid requests as required. However, certain sensitive information may be essential for a requested casting-related feature, profile display, submission, safety review, legal compliance or user-requested communication.

8. Payments, Subscriptions, Billing and Transaction Data

If CastSlate offers paid services, subscriptions, featured listings, promoted content, premium communication features, classes, credits or other paid products, we and our payment processors may collect payment and transaction information. CastSlate uses payment information to process charges, renew subscriptions, prevent fraud, manage refunds, respond to chargebacks, maintain accounting records, comply with tax and legal obligations, and enforce subscription terms.

By purchasing a subscription or paid service, you authorize CastSlate and its payment processors to collect and process information necessary to complete the transaction. Subscription and cancellation terms may be explained in the Terms of Service, checkout page, account settings, payment processor page or other transaction notice.

CastSlate may retain transaction records for legal, tax, accounting, audit, fraud prevention and dispute purposes even after account deletion, where permitted or required by law.

9. Cookies, Analytics, Advertising and Similar Technologies

CastSlate and its service providers may use cookies, pixels, SDKs, tags, local storage, session storage, device identifiers and similar technologies to operate the Services, remember preferences, maintain login sessions, secure accounts, detect fraud, measure performance, analyze traffic, improve features, personalize content, deliver advertising, measure advertising effectiveness and understand user behavior.

You may be able to control cookies through your browser settings, device settings, consent tools, advertising platform settings or other preference mechanisms. Blocking cookies may affect site functionality, login sessions, payments, security features or account settings. The internet, having invented both convenience and surveillance in the same breath, naturally requires a paragraph like this.

We may use analytics tools such as Google Analytics or similar services. These providers may collect information about your device and use of the Services. You may have options to limit analytics through browser settings, provider opt-out tools or privacy controls.

10. How We Share Personal Information

We may share personal information with service providers, processors and contractors that help us operate the Services, including hosting providers, cloud storage vendors, payment processors, analytics providers, email providers, customer support tools, security vendors, fraud prevention services, identity verification providers, advertising platforms, development contractors, auditors, legal advisors, accountants and business operations providers.

We may share information with other users when you use features designed for interaction, such as profiles, submissions, casting notices, messages, applications, shortlists, saved profiles, invitations, public listings, class signups or project communications. We may share information with casting directors, producers, employers, instructors, talent users, representatives or other account types as necessary for the feature you use.

We may disclose information to comply with law, legal process, subpoenas, warrants, court orders, government requests, regulatory inquiries, law enforcement requests, safety requests or to protect the rights, property and safety of CastSlate, users, the public or others. We may disclose information to enforce our Terms, investigate abuse, prevent fraud, resolve disputes, collect amounts owed, defend legal claims or protect business operations.

We may share information in connection with a business transaction, such as a merger, acquisition, financing, reorganization, sale of assets, bankruptcy, change of control, due diligence or transfer of part or all of our business.

11. No Sale of Personal Information; Sharing and Targeted Advertising Choices

CastSlate does not intend to sell personal information in the ordinary meaning of selling names or profiles for money. However, privacy laws may define “sale,” “sharing,” “targeted advertising,” or “cross-context behavioral advertising” broadly to include certain advertising or analytics arrangements involving cookies, pixels or identifiers.

Where required by law, CastSlate will provide users with rights to opt out of sale, sharing, targeted advertising or cross-context behavioral advertising. If CastSlate uses advertising technologies that qualify as “sharing” or “targeted advertising,” users may submit an opt-out request through available privacy controls, browser-based signals where recognized, or by contacting CastSlate.

CastSlate does not knowingly sell or share personal information of children or Young Users under the age threshold applicable under relevant law.

12. User-Generated Content, Fictionalized Content, False Content and Platform Protection

CastSlate is a platform that may host content created, uploaded, submitted or transmitted by users. User-generated content may include profiles, images, resumes, reels, names, stage names, biographies, credits, casting notices, role descriptions, creative summaries, project descriptions, messages, class listings, production claims, compensation details, fictionalized materials, entertainment concepts, sample content, test content, placeholder content, promotional content, artistic statements, opinions and other materials.

CastSlate does not guarantee, endorse or independently verify the truth, accuracy, completeness, legality, safety, reliability, availability, compensation, legitimacy, authorship, ownership, identity, credentials, union status, professional claims, production status, casting status, project existence, artistic claims, entertainment claims, financial claims, employment claims, testimonials, reviews, credits, resumes, reels, photographs, character descriptions, role descriptions, fictionalized statements, satire, opinion, user labels or any other user-generated content.

Users understand that some information on CastSlate may be fictional, dramatized, exaggerated, outdated, mistaken, mislabeled, incomplete, posted for entertainment, posted for testing, posted for creative purposes, posted under false pretenses, or posted by users who are not who they claim to be. CastSlate may remove content, suspend accounts or investigate reports, but has no obligation to pre-screen all content and cannot guarantee that all false, misleading, unlawful, harmful or fictionalized content will be detected or removed before users see or rely on it.

Users are solely responsible for evaluating the credibility, safety, lawfulness and suitability of other users, opportunities, projects, profiles, submissions, messages and listings. Users should conduct their own due diligence before meeting anyone, paying money, sharing sensitive information, accepting work, traveling, attending auditions, signing contracts or relying on information posted through the Services.

To the fullest extent permitted by law, CastSlate disclaims responsibility for losses, damages, claims, disputes, injuries, emotional distress, reputational harm, financial loss, missed opportunities, employment consequences, safety incidents, reliance damages, contractual disputes, fraud, impersonation, misinformation or other harm arising from user-generated content, fictionalized content, false content, entertainment-only content, unverified content, third-party communications, offline meetings, casting decisions or user interactions.

13. Security, Fraud Prevention and Account Integrity

We may use personal information to detect, prevent and respond to security incidents, fraud, spam, scams, unauthorized account access, fake casting notices, fake profiles, scraping, bots, suspicious payments, chargebacks, abusive messaging, harassment, policy violations and attempts to bypass platform protections.

We may review content, messages, account activity, device signals, payment activity, IP addresses, metadata and reports when we believe review is necessary to protect users, CastSlate, service providers, legal rights or platform integrity. We may restrict, suspend, terminate, hide, delete, preserve or disclose information as permitted by law and our Terms of Service.

14. Data Retention

We retain personal information for as long as reasonably necessary to provide the Services, maintain accounts, complete transactions, comply with legal obligations, resolve disputes, enforce agreements, prevent fraud, maintain security, investigate abuse, improve the Services, comply with accounting or tax requirements, maintain business records, defend legal claims and fulfill the purposes described in this Privacy Policy.

Retention periods vary depending on the type of information, account status, legal obligations, user requests, backup cycles, fraud risks, dispute status, payment records and operational needs. We may retain certain information after account deletion where required or permitted by law, including transaction records, security logs, legal records, abuse reports, communications necessary for dispute resolution, records showing consent or opt-out, and information needed to prevent a user from re-registering after termination.

We may retain deidentified, aggregated or anonymized information indefinitely where it does not identify you and is maintained in accordance with applicable law.

15. Your Choices and Privacy Rights

Depending on where you live, you may have rights to request access to personal information, correction of inaccurate information, deletion of personal information, portability, restriction of processing, objection to processing, withdrawal of consent, opt-out of certain advertising or sharing, limitation of sensitive personal information, and appeal of certain privacy decisions.

To exercise rights, contact CastSlate at [privacy@castslate.com] or through the privacy request method made available on the Services. We may require information to verify your identity and authority to make the request. We may deny or limit requests where permitted by law, including when we cannot verify identity, when information must be retained for legal or security reasons, when the request is excessive or unfounded, when information belongs to another person, when disclosure would compromise security or privacy, or when another exception applies.

You may update certain account information directly through your account settings. You may opt out of marketing emails by using unsubscribe links or contacting us. You may control some cookies through browser settings. Account deletion may not delete information already shared with other users, copied by others, retained in backups, included in legal records, or retained where permitted by law.

16. California Privacy Notice

This section applies to California residents and supplements the rest of this Privacy Policy. It is intended to serve as a Notice at Collection under the California Consumer Privacy Act as amended by the California Privacy Rights Act and related regulations, to the extent those laws apply to CastSlate.

In the preceding twelve months, CastSlate may have collected the following categories of personal information: identifiers; California Customer Records information; protected classification characteristics voluntarily provided or inferred from casting/profile information; commercial information; internet or network activity; geolocation information; audio, electronic, visual or similar information; professional or employment-related information; education information if provided; sensitive personal information where voluntarily provided or required for a feature; and inferences drawn from user activity.

We collect these categories from users, devices, service providers, payment processors, other users, business partners, public sources and legal sources. We use and disclose these categories for the business and commercial purposes described throughout this Privacy Policy, including service delivery, account management, payments, security, legal compliance, analytics, advertising, support, moderation and platform improvement.

California residents may have the right to know the categories and specific pieces of personal information collected, the right to delete personal information, the right to correct inaccurate information, the right to opt out of sale or sharing, the right to limit the use and disclosure of sensitive personal information where applicable, the right not to be discriminated against for exercising privacy rights, and the right to use an authorized agent.

CastSlate does not use sensitive personal information for purposes requiring a right to limit unless disclosed and permitted by law. Casting-related sensitive information voluntarily posted or submitted by a user may be used to provide the requested casting, profile, search, submission or communication function.

To submit a California privacy request, contact [privacy@castslate.com]. Authorized agents must provide proof of authority and CastSlate may require the consumer to verify identity directly. We will respond within the time required by law and may extend the response period where permitted.

17. Other United States Privacy Rights

Residents of other U.S. states may have privacy rights under state privacy laws, including rights to access, delete, correct, obtain a copy of personal information, opt out of targeted advertising, opt out of sale, opt out of certain profiling, or appeal a decision. CastSlate will honor applicable state privacy rights where legally required.

Users may submit requests to [privacy@castslate.com]. We may verify your identity, ask for additional information, deny requests where exceptions apply, and provide an appeal mechanism where required.

Additional California Category Details

Identifiers: name, alias, stage name, email address, phone number, username, IP address, account identifier, device identifier, billing identifier and similar identifiers. Sources may include you, your device, service providers, payment processors and other users. Purposes include account creation, communications, billing, security, support and service delivery.

California Customer Records information: name, signature where applicable, address, phone number, payment-related records, employment-related information, physical characteristics or description voluntarily supplied for casting purposes, and similar information. Purposes include casting functionality, billing, recordkeeping, fraud prevention and legal compliance.

Protected classification characteristics: information such as age, gender, ethnicity, race, disability-related casting information or similar information only where voluntarily supplied, inferred from user-provided content, or needed for lawful casting functionality. Purposes include profile display, casting searches, submissions and user-requested services. Users posting opportunities are responsible for avoiding unlawful discrimination.

Commercial information: subscriptions, purchases, invoices, refunds, chargebacks, customer support records, classes, premium tools and transaction history. Purposes include payment processing, accounting, fraud prevention and subscription management.

Internet or network activity: pages viewed, searches, clicks, logins, device data, browser data, referral data, session data, cookie IDs, advertising IDs and interactions with the Services. Purposes include analytics, security, personalization, product development and advertising.

Geolocation data: approximate location from IP address and precise location only if you enable or submit it. Purposes include account security, local opportunities, personalization, fraud prevention and legal compliance.

Audio, electronic, visual or similar information: photographs, headshots, videos, reels, audio recordings, uploaded materials, profile images, audition materials and communication attachments. Purposes include profile display, submissions, casting review, messaging, moderation and user-requested functionality.

Professional, employment and education information: credits, resumes, work history, training, skills, unions, representation, experience, educational background and role preferences. Purposes include casting, profile creation, search, submissions, communications and platform functionality.

Sensitive personal information: login credentials, payment-related security data processed by vendors, precise location if enabled, demographic or physical characteristics voluntarily provided for casting, union status where legally considered sensitive, and content that may reveal sensitive attributes if posted by users. Purposes include providing requested Services, account security, fraud prevention and legal compliance.

18. International Users, GDPR/UK GDPR, EEA, UK and Swiss Privacy Rights

If you are located in the European Economic Area, the United Kingdom, Switzerland or another jurisdiction with similar laws, CastSlate may process personal information as a controller, joint controller, processor or service provider depending on the context. The legal bases for processing may include performance of a contract, legitimate interests, consent, compliance with legal obligations, protection of vital interests, and establishment or defense of legal claims.

Legitimate interests may include operating and securing the Services, enabling casting communications, preventing fraud, improving products, measuring usage, enforcing terms, protecting rights and conducting ordinary business operations. Where consent is required, you may withdraw consent, but withdrawal will not affect processing that occurred before withdrawal or processing based on another lawful basis.

You may have rights to access, rectification, erasure, restriction, objection, portability, withdrawal of consent and complaint to a supervisory authority. CastSlate may transfer personal information to the United States and other countries that may not provide the same level of data protection as your home jurisdiction. Where required, CastSlate will use appropriate safeguards such as standard contractual clauses or other lawful transfer mechanisms.

19. Canada, Australia, New Zealand and Other Jurisdictions

Where applicable, CastSlate will handle personal information in accordance with relevant privacy laws in Canada, Australia, New Zealand and other jurisdictions. Rights and obligations vary by location and may include access, correction, complaint, consent, transparency, data security and cross-border transfer requirements.

Users outside the United States understand that CastSlate may store and process personal information in the United States and other countries. By using the Services, you acknowledge that your information may be transferred to jurisdictions with different privacy laws than those in your location.

20. Children, Young Users and Parent/Guardian Accounts

The Services are not directed to children under 13 and are generally intended for users who are at least 18 years old. Users under 18 may use CastSlate only through a parent or legal guardian account where permitted by CastSlate and applicable law. Parent or guardian users are responsible for supervising the account, submissions, messages, profile content, payments, privacy settings and all activity related to a Young User.

CastSlate does not knowingly collect personal information from children under 13 without legally required consent. If we learn that we have collected personal information from a child under 13 without required consent, we will take appropriate steps to delete or restrict that information as required by law.

Parents or guardians may contact [privacy@castsplate.com] to request review, correction or deletion of a child's information, subject to verification and legal exceptions.

21. Third-Party Sites, Links, Integrations and Service Providers

The Services may contain links to third-party websites, payment processors, social media pages, casting resources, production websites, class providers, portfolio links, video hosting platforms or other external services. CastSlate does not control third-party privacy practices and is not responsible for their collection, use, disclosure, security, content or policies.

If you follow a third-party link, submit information to a third party, sign into a third-party account, use a third-party payment tool, upload media to a third-party hosting service, or interact with a third-party opportunity, your information may be governed by that third party's privacy policy and terms. You are responsible for reviewing those policies before providing information.

22. Emails, Texts, Push Notifications and Electronic Communications

CastSlate may send administrative, transactional, security, billing, legal, account, support and service-related communications. You may not be able to opt out of essential transactional or legal communications while you maintain an account or active relationship with CastSlate.

CastSlate may send marketing communications about features, casting tools, classes, subscriptions, promotions or updates where permitted by law. You may opt out of marketing emails by using unsubscribe links or contacting us. Message and data rates may apply to SMS or mobile communications if offered and accepted.

23. Artificial Intelligence, Automated Tools and Product Improvement

CastSlate may use automated tools, machine learning, artificial intelligence, rules-based systems, spam filters, recommendation tools, moderation tools, analytics tools or similar technologies to operate, protect and improve the Services. These tools may assist with search, recommendations, fraud detection, abuse detection, duplicate account detection, content review, customer support, analytics, product testing and administrative workflows.

Automated tools may make mistakes. CastSlate does not guarantee the accuracy, fairness, completeness or availability of automated outputs, rankings, suggestions, risk indicators, recommendations, search results, profile prompts, moderation signals or casting matches. Users should not rely solely on automated outputs for employment, hiring, safety, legal, financial or professional decisions.

Where legally required, CastSlate will provide notices, rights or opt-outs related to automated decision-making technologies.

24. Deidentified, Aggregated and Anonymized Information

CastSlate may create, use, retain, disclose, sell, license or otherwise process deidentified, aggregated or anonymized information for any lawful purpose, including analytics, reporting, business intelligence, product development, industry insights, marketing, security, research and service improvement, provided the information is not reasonably linkable to an identified or identifiable individual as required by law.

CastSlate will not attempt to reidentify deidentified information except as permitted by law, such as to test whether deidentification processes are effective.

25. Business Transfers

If CastSlate is involved in a merger, acquisition, investment, financing, restructuring, bankruptcy, sale of assets, transfer of ownership or similar business transaction, personal information may be disclosed, transferred or reviewed as part of that transaction, subject to appropriate confidentiality or legal safeguards where required.

Any successor or acquiring entity may continue to process personal information consistent with this Privacy Policy unless a different policy is provided as required by law.

26. Legal Requests, Safety, Enforcement and Compliance

CastSlate may preserve, use and disclose personal information when we believe in good faith that doing so is necessary or appropriate to comply with law, respond to legal process, respond to government or law enforcement requests, protect rights or safety, prevent fraud, investigate misconduct, enforce agreements, collect amounts owed, defend legal claims, cooperate with audits, protect users, prevent physical harm, address emergencies or maintain platform integrity.

We may preserve information related to accounts, messages, logs, listings, payments, submissions, reports and user content when we receive notice of a legal dispute, abuse report, fraud claim, subpoena, regulatory inquiry, law enforcement request, intellectual property claim, safety concern, payment dispute or other matter requiring preservation.

27. Data Security Disclaimer

CastSlate uses reasonable administrative, technical and physical safeguards designed to protect personal information. Safeguards may include access controls, encryption where appropriate, monitoring, backups, vendor controls, password protections, security reviews, incident response planning and other measures. No website, application, database, network, email system, payment system, cloud service, storage system or internet transmission is completely secure.

You understand and agree that you provide information at your own risk and that CastSlate cannot guarantee that unauthorized access, hacking, data loss, system errors, provider failures, malware, phishing, credential theft, employee error, user error, third-party breach or other security incidents will never occur. Users are responsible for using strong passwords, protecting credentials, keeping contact information current, logging out of shared devices and reporting suspected unauthorized access promptly.

To the fullest extent permitted by law, CastSlate disclaims liability for unauthorized access, disclosure, loss, alteration, corruption, unavailability or misuse of personal information caused by circumstances beyond CastSlate's reasonable control, by third parties, by other users, by service providers, by internet failures, by user negligence, by compromised credentials or by unlawful conduct.

28. Accessing, Updating, Correcting and Deleting Your Information

You may access and update certain information through your account settings. You are responsible for keeping account, profile, billing and contact information accurate, current and complete. CastSlate is not responsible for losses or missed communications caused by outdated or inaccurate information supplied by you.

You may request correction or deletion by contacting [privacy@castsplate.com]. We may need to verify your identity and may retain information where permitted or required by law, including for legal compliance, security, fraud prevention, accounting, dispute resolution, enforcement, backups, platform integrity or completion of transactions.

Deleting a profile or account may not remove information already viewed, copied, downloaded, screenshotted, stored, shared or retained by other users or third parties. CastSlate has no practical ability to retrieve information already exported or copied outside the Services by users or third parties.

29. Do Not Track and Global Privacy Control

Some browsers transmit “Do Not Track” signals. Because there is no uniform standard for responding to Do Not Track signals, CastSlate may not respond to such signals unless required by law.

Where legally required and technically feasible, CastSlate will recognize Global Privacy Control or similar opt-out preference signals as required by applicable privacy laws. The effect of such signals may depend on your browser, device, account state, jurisdiction and CastSlate’s current technical implementation.

30. Changes to This Privacy Policy

CastSlate may update this Privacy Policy from time to time to reflect changes in law, technology, business operations, Services, privacy practices, user needs, security requirements or other reasons. We will post the updated Privacy Policy with a revised “Last Updated” date. Where required by law, we may provide additional notice or request consent.

Your continued use of the Services after an updated Privacy Policy becomes effective means you acknowledge the updated policy. If you do not agree to the updated Privacy Policy, you must stop using the Services and may request account deletion subject to legal exceptions.

Please include enough information for CastSlate to understand and respond to your request. Do not include unnecessary sensitive information in email communications. The legal system already has enough ways to make simple things worse.

Platform Privacy Protection Addendum

This addendum is included to clarify platform risk boundaries. It is not a waiver of rights that cannot legally be waived, and it does not reduce any responsibility CastSlate has under applicable law. It does clarify that users remain responsible for what they submit, share, post, rely on, copy, download, transmit, disclose, store, publish, represent or claim through the Services.

No privacy policy can make a company impossible to sue. Any statement suggesting otherwise would be both legally reckless and, frankly, a tiny paper clown. CastSlate can only state lawful limitations, disclaimers, processes and user responsibilities.

Users are solely responsible for ensuring they have all necessary permissions, consents, releases, rights and lawful bases to upload, submit or disclose personal information, images, videos, resumes, union status, demographic information, contact information, project information, compensation information, production information or other material relating to themselves or others.

CastSlate is not responsible for user failure to obtain consent, user misuse of personal information, user discrimination, user deception, user impersonation, inaccurate user posts, fictionalized user posts, entertainment-only posts, third-party scraping, unlawful offline conduct, or user reliance on unverified information, except where applicable law imposes non-waivable responsibility on CastSlate.

CastSlate may remove content or restrict accounts but does not undertake a general duty to monitor every user, verify every profile, validate every casting notice, inspect every message, confirm every identity, audit every production, authenticate every claim, screen every project, or prevent every misuse of information before it occurs.

Users should avoid posting Social Security numbers, passport numbers, bank account numbers, medical records, explicit images, home addresses, passwords, private third-party information or any sensitive information not required for the specific lawful use of the Services.

If a casting or production opportunity asks for money, unusually sensitive information, travel to unsafe locations, private meetings, off-platform communications, financial transfers, identity documents, nude or explicit materials, or anything that appears unsafe or suspicious, users should investigate independently, report the issue to CastSlate, and avoid proceeding until satisfied of safety and legitimacy.

CastSlate may preserve and disclose information to protect users and the platform, including to law enforcement, courts, regulators, service providers, legal counsel or affected parties where permitted or required by law.

ADDENDUM TO CASTSLATE PRIVACY POLICY

Nationwide Application of Privacy Policy and State Privacy Rights

This Addendum is incorporated into and forms part of the CastSlate Privacy Policy. Except as expressly supplemented by this Addendum, the Privacy Policy remains unchanged and continues in full force and effect.

1. Application Across the United States

To the fullest extent permitted by applicable law, the CastSlate Privacy Policy applies to all users, visitors, account holders, casting directors, actors, performers, parents or guardians, representatives, subscribers, customers, and other persons who access or use CastSlate from any of the fifty (50) United States, the District of Columbia, and United States territories and possessions.

The Privacy Policy is intended to describe CastSlate's collection, use, disclosure, retention, protection, and processing of personal information on a nationwide basis, while also recognizing that certain states may provide additional privacy rights, notices, limitations, exemptions, or procedures that cannot legally be waived or limited by contract.

2. State-Specific Privacy Laws and Non-Waivable Rights

Nothing in the Privacy Policy or this Addendum is intended to deny, waive, restrict, or limit any privacy right that cannot be waived under applicable state or federal law. If a state privacy law gives a user a mandatory right to access, correct, delete, port, opt out, appeal, restrict certain processing, limit use of sensitive personal information, or receive additional notices, CastSlate will honor that right to the extent required by applicable law and subject to lawful exceptions, verification requirements, identity-confirmation procedures, retention obligations, security needs, fraud-prevention needs, contractual obligations, and other legally permitted limitations.

Where a provision of the Privacy Policy conflicts with a mandatory privacy requirement of a user's state of residence, the mandatory state requirement will apply only to the extent required by law for that user and that circumstance, and the remaining provisions of the Privacy Policy will remain enforceable to the fullest extent permitted by law.

3. No Expansion of Liability or Private Rights Beyond Applicable Law

This nationwide application language is intended to provide broad notice and transparency. It does not create any private right of action, contractual privacy right, warranty, representation, fiduciary duty, data-security guarantee, damages remedy, class-action right, or other obligation beyond those expressly required by applicable law or expressly stated in the Privacy Policy.

TO THE FULLEST EXTENT PERMITTED BY LAW, CASTSLATE DOES NOT AGREE TO BE GOVERNED BY EVERY STATE'S PRIVACY LAW FOR EVERY USER OR EVERY CLAIM MERELY BECAUSE THE PRIVACY POLICY REFERENCES NATIONWIDE APPLICATION. STATE-SPECIFIC RIGHTS APPLY ONLY WHERE THE APPLICABLE LAW REQUIRES THEM TO APPLY.

4. Users Outside California

Any California privacy notice, California notice at collection, or California-specific section contained in the Privacy Policy may include information that CastSlate chooses to provide for general transparency. Unless otherwise required by law, California-specific rights, procedures, definitions, and remedies apply only to persons and situations covered by California law. Users in other states may have different rights under their own state laws, and CastSlate will evaluate verified requests according to the law that applies to the requesting user and the personal information at issue.

5. Verification, Fraud Prevention, Safety, and Legal Exceptions

CastSlate may deny, limit, delay, or refuse a privacy request where permitted by law, including where CastSlate cannot reasonably verify the requester's identity or authority; where disclosure would compromise security, privacy, fraud prevention, legal compliance, trade secrets, another person's rights, or platform safety; where retention is necessary for transactions, records, disputes, investigations, legal claims, tax or accounting obligations, security logs, abuse prevention, or Terms of Service enforcement; or where another exception applies.

6. Survival and Severability

If any part of this Addendum is found invalid, unlawful, or unenforceable, that part will be limited or severed to the minimum extent necessary, and the remaining provisions of the Privacy Policy and this Addendum will remain in effect. This Addendum survives account closure, cancellation, deletion requests, and discontinued use of CastSlate to the extent relevant to information retained or processed as permitted by law.
